Message from the Chairman and CEO

The 2025/26 financial year has been another positive year for Bene with a net surplus of $1.9m and a net asset increase from $49m to $72m.

In November 2025 we opened our nine-bed Specialist Dementia Care Unit (SDCU) at The Italian Village, St Agnes, the first unit of its kind in Adelaide's northern suburbs. Its focus is on people with severe behavioural and psychological symptoms of dementia. Supporting families with respect for cultural heritage, the SDCU is the next step in continuing this tradition.

Bene Home Care continues to grow, and our Support at Home packages now support independent living at home for over 290 clients. The future demand for Bene Home Care is expected to be strong.

All Bene staff, volunteers and board members can be proud of their contribution to the quality care we provide. Their dedication and hard work have been instrumental in all four residential sites with no outstanding non-compliance. Our following nursing home sites St Clair, St Paul's and St Agnes received 4 star ratings and Campbelltown 3 stars out of 5 stars.

Our Clinical Governance Committee has also provided good clinical oversight, embedding a strong evidence-based action and reporting culture to meet the new Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission's requirements.

Recruiting and retaining quality staff continues to be challenging across the aged care sector, particularly with the introduction of mandated care minutes and star ratings.

We would also like to acknowledge the retirement of Anne Higginson (Community Manager) for her dedicated service to Bene Aged Care over the years.

We also recognise the years of dedicated service by Anna McNair and Ray Ravalico and their resignations from the Bene Board during the year. We also welcome John Di Fede and Gina Marchetti as new Bene Board members.

The commencement of the new Aged Care Act on 1 November 2025 responds to many of the recommendations of the Aged Care Royal Commission and the Aged Care Taskforce. It will further increase compliance, reporting and more user paying to contribute for providing care.

We thank all the staff, students and volunteers of Bene Aged Care for making us a special place.

COO Report for 2025/2026

The 2025/26 year within the aged care sector presented many challenges. The rollout of the new Aged Care Act and the Support at Home Program implementation kept providers busy and proactive with the rate of change. The scale of the organisational response required by Bene has been significant. From the Board and Executive Team to our staff and residents, everyone has needed to adapt and evolve as business as usual continued.

In residential care, our four sites continued to maintain high occupancy amid ongoing government pressure to provide more aged care places. Our Specialist Dementia Care Unit was opened by the Hon Mark Butler MP in November 2025 and plays an important role in the clinical management of this particular residential cohort. Other achievements in the residential space include the commencement of our painting program, new carpet at St Clair, a gymnasium installation at St Agnes, a new resident kitchen at St Paul's and new flooring at Campbelltown.

Ongoing grant applications are being submitted for a range of outcomes, including new beds at St Clair, infrastructure at Padre Pio and a pooled funding trial at Hahndorf. Opportunities for assisted capital or operational funding for Bene will be monitored moving forward to determine if any projects of benefit are available.

Support at Home commenced nationally in November 2025 and impacted Home Care operations significantly. Through thorough planning, including new software, enhanced staffing and care management, Bene progressed well in comparison to a large number of other providers. Our package numbers continue to grow with a total nearing 300 in this area.

Other areas of business including maintenance, have changed aspects of their area throughout the year. Establishment of a formal preventative maintenance program is being expanded, and a complete business asset register continues to be developed. Following a large-scale bed audit last year, contract services have been engaged to assist our internal team with bed purchases and maintenance.

Marketing consultants Brand Partners have been engaged to assist with Bene's ongoing needs, including website, hard-copy collateral, social media and branding review. With the change in legislation impacting a large amount of existing marketing materials, a significant amount of time has been taken to adapt our previously used material.

Bene continued to prepare for re-registration through the Australian Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission with a large-scale multi-portfolio program affecting every aspect of the business.
We look forward to continuing to serve our community into next year and the future.

People and Culture

Building tomorrow´s workforce

Delivering our strategy depends on our people, their skills, mindsets and commitment to the older people we serve. We continue to focus on attracting and retaining talented and passionate people who can meet the changing needs of the aged care sector and contribute to our long-term success.

This focus is reflected in our permanent employee turnover of 15%, which remains well below the industry average. This strong retention builds upon our foundation of creating a workplace where people can build meaningful, long-term careers, develop a strong sense of belonging and make a valued contribution to the lives of those we serve.

Through our investment in learning and development, leadership capability, wellbeing and career pathways, we are supporting our people to build their skills and embrace new opportunities. In doing so, we are developing a workforce that is equipped to meet our needs today while being prepared for what comes next.

Investing in technology

The aged care sector continues to experience workforce and regulatory change. The skills and capabilities required of our people are evolving, particularly as expectations around quality, clinical governance, workforce capability and compliance continue to increase. We are taking a workforce planning and skills-based approach to identifying the capabilities we need now and into the future.

During the reporting year, we commenced the rollout of Humanforce, strengthening the way we manage workforce information, recruitment, payroll, rostering, employee communication, recognition and other workforce processes. Humanforce is also supporting a more connected employee experience through real-time digital communication, access to wellbeing resources, peer-to-peer recognition and values-based rewards. These capabilities provide employees with greater access to information and opportunities to connect, recognise one another and engage with our organisation.

The continued implementation of Humanforce provides a stronger foundation for workforce planning and employee engagement, while improving our ability to understand workforce trends and respond to changing organisational needs.

Training our people

We continue to invest in the professional development and capability of our people. Employees had access to more than 1,400 accredited training programs, completing just under 8,000 hours of education and professional development throughout the year.

Our Ausmed learning platform provides a cornerstone of healthcare education, offering learning and development opportunities that support the ongoing development of role-specific skills, clinical knowledge and capability. This is complemented by our broader People and Culture framework, which focuses not only on meeting mandatory training and compliance requirements, but also on building capability and supporting employees throughout their careers.

Leadership development is an important part of this approach. Strong frontline leadership is essential to creating a positive employee experience, supporting psychological safety and ensuring our leaders are equipped to navigate the increasingly complex workforce and regulatory environment within aged care.

Later this year, aligned with our workforce plan, we will further strengthen leadership capability through targeted development programs for managers and supervisors. The programs will focus on practical people management skills, including frontline leadership, compassionate and person-centred leadership, performance coaching and mentoring.

These programs are designed to equip our leaders with the skills and confidence to support employee wellbeing, foster psychological safety, provide regular and constructive feedback, address performance concerns early, develop their people and identify future talent and succession opportunities.

Our investment in education reflects our commitment to building the capability we need today while preparing our people and our organisation for tomorrow.

Diversity and inclusion

We recognise that a diverse workforce strengthens our organisation and reflects the communities we serve. Our workforce comprises people from a broad range of cultural backgrounds, genders and levels of experience, contributing to the diversity and capability of our organisation.

The workforce profile presented further in this section provides an overview of our employee demographics, including gender, cultural heritage and length of service. This information provides valuable insight into the diversity of our workforce and supports our ongoing focus on creating an inclusive workplace where employees have equitable opportunities to participate, develop and progress.

In March, we successfully completed our annual submission to the Workplace Gender Equality Agency (WGEA), meeting all applicable reporting and compliance requirements. As part of this year's submission, we were required to select and commit to three gender equality targets for action. Our priorities are to strengthen policies and practices supporting equal remuneration and gender pay equity, and to undertake an annual comprehensive gender pay gap analysis.

Creating safe and healthy workplaces

The safety and wellbeing of our people remain a priority. We continued to strengthen our approach to workplace health, safety and wellbeing, with a focus on proactive risk identification, employee wellbeing and building a strong safety culture across our residential, community and corporate services.

We reinvigorated our wellbeing committees, providing employees with greater opportunities to contribute to workplace health, safety and wellbeing initiatives and to raise issues that may impact their teams. We also strengthened our approach to proactive risk management, supporting managers and employees to identify hazards, address risks and maintain safe environments for employees, residents, clients, visitors and contractors.

Our approach is centred on prevention, early intervention and continuous improvement, with the ultimate aim of minimising workplace injuries and ensuring our people return home safely at the end of each day. During 2025/26, 145 incidents were reported, an average of 12 incidents per month across our services. While incident reporting remains an important part of our safety culture, a key measure of improvement was the reduction in claims costs, which fell from $178,000 in 2024/25 to $50,000 in 2025/26 – a 72% reduction. This result reflects our continued focus on early intervention, proactive risk management and supporting employees following workplace incidents.

Wellbeing is reinforced from the beginning of the employment journey. We introduced wellbeing check-ins at seven and fourteen days following commencement, providing an early opportunity to understand how new employees are settling in, identify any concerns and ensure they have the support they need. The check-ins form part of our broader focus on strengthening the employee experience and creating a positive connection from the outset. We also introduced a new onboarding program, providing a more consistent and engaging introduction to our organisation, our values, expectations and the important role each employee plays in delivering safe, high-quality and person-centred care. The program provides employees with the knowledge, resources and support they need to confidently commence their roles and become part of our community. Feedback from the wellbeing check-ins highlighted the positive impact of the enhanced induction experience, with four in five new employees reporting that they were very satisfied with their induction.

A highlight during the year was our participation in R U OK? Day and Safe Work Week, providing opportunities for our people to come together and reinforce our commitment to wellbeing, connection and workplace safety. R U OK? Day encouraged employees and leaders to check in with one another, strengthen connections and recognise the importance of creating a workplace where people feel comfortable asking for support and having meaningful conversations about their wellbeing.

Residential Aged Care

Bene Aged Care has been a pillar of the South Australian aged care sector since 1974.

Our core mission is to respect and honour the unique cultural, spiritual, and social needs of our community.

At the heart of our organisation is the commitment to person-centred care that values every individual for who they are, regardless of their background. Driven by a passion for dignity and inclusivity, Bene Aged Care continuously strives to establish new benchmarks for excellence.

A major highlight of our recent achievements is the successful launch and operation of our Specialist Dementia Care Unit (SDCU). Bene successfully secured a five-year Commonwealth Grant for the Specialist Dementia Care Program, which was officially opened by the Hon Mark Butler MP, Federal Minister for Health and Aged Care, in November 2025.

Bene was nominated as finalist and runner up in the 14th Asia Pacific Eldercare Innovation Awards 2026 for the “Best empowerment program to engage and empower older persons living with dementia to live with dignity”. This award highlighted the framework titled “Enhancing Dementia Care for CALD Communities. Culturally Sensitive Approaches through Inclusion and Intersectionality for Ethnic Minorities”. Which further recognised our commitment to the sector and our commitment to deliver specialist dementia care.

Bene was also recognised on a global academic stage, delivering peer-reviewed research presentations at the Alzheimer’s Europe Conference for three consecutive years.

Alongside our specialist dementia services, Bene continues to achieve high occupancy across all residential sites while maintaining outstanding quality and regulatory benchmarks.

All our residential sites are fully compliant, and our staffing star rating sits proudly above the national benchmark, reflecting our deep investment in a skilled, compassionate workforce.

Crucial to this operational success is our ability to attract and retain highly capable managers. We are proud to retain senior management across all our homes, which stands as a true testament to our strong organisational culture. This leadership continuity provides structured management, clear role modelling, and stability for our staff, resulting in a deeply stabilised workforce. We take immense pride in fostering clear pathways for career progression.

Our dedication to heritage and identity remains a daily priority, and we have received wonderful feedback from external providers regarding our culturally specific meals.

To support the independence and vitality of our older persons, we maintain a strong focus on wellness and reablement. This is supported by fully functioning, specialised gyms located at our St Agnes and St Paul's sites, which empower older persons to maintain their physical health and functional mobility.

We also continue to actively establish and strengthen relationships with local health networks. By working collaboratively with these health partners, we ensure seamless care integration and remain united in achieving excellent outcomes for older persons.

Looking ahead, we are actively preparing for the upcoming reassessment visits against the new Aged Care Act and new Quality Standards. We warmly welcome the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission visits as an excellent opportunity to showcase our sites. These visits allow us to proudly exhibit our operational compliance, our strong leadership stability, our proactive wellness initiatives, and the exceptional, culturally specific dementia care that defines Bene Aged Care.

Community Services

The successful implementation of the Australian Government's Support at Home Program was the defining achievement for Bene Home Care during 2025/26.

Originally scheduled to commence on 1 July 2025, the program was postponed nationally and ultimately commenced on 1 November 2025. This represented one of the most significant reforms to community aged care in decades, changing how services are funded, planned, delivered and reported.

Bene successfully transitioned its clients and services to the new program while continuing to provide essential care and support in the community. This substantial achievement required coordinated changes across client agreements, care planning, budgets, rostering, accounting, clinical oversight, service documentation and technology.

Our employees responded with professionalism, flexibility and an extraordinary commitment to our clients. Extensive training and guidance enabled teams to understand the new requirements and confidently support clients and families through an unfamiliar and complex transition. Bene's success was not simply the introduction of new systems, it was the continuation of safe, culturally responsive and person-centred services throughout a once-in-a-generation reform.

Our nursing and care management teams continued to strengthen clinical oversight, care documentation and coordination with clients, families, general practitioners, pharmacies and allied health professionals. Particular attention was given to medication management, falls prevention, recognising changes in clients' health and ensuring emerging risks were appropriately documented and escalated.

AlayaCare continued to support rostering, care management, clinical documentation and financial workflows, with further enhancements introduced to meet Support at Home requirements and strengthen evidence of service delivery. Client communication systems also provided clients and families with timely information about scheduled visits and services.

The Commonwealth Home Support Program continued to provide valuable entry-level assistance to older people, while Bene maintained services for eligible veterans through funding from the Department of Veterans' Affairs. Work during the year also focused on improving the accuracy of client information and service reporting across meals, transport, volunteer activity, subcontracted services and service-plan reviews.

Bene Vita continued to provide meaningful social, respite and wellness opportunities through group activities, shared meals, transport and the dementia respite program. These services supported older people to maintain connections, participate in their communities and remain engaged, while also providing important assistance and respite for families and carers.

Feedback from clients and families recognised the kindness, dedication and professionalism of our employees. It also helped identify opportunities to further improve communication, service reliability and the consistency of employees attending clients' homes.

As a verified specialist provider for culturally and linguistically diverse communities, Bene continued to advocate for the needs of older Italian and other CALD people. Our cultural knowledge, trusted community relationships and understanding of the barriers experienced by CALD older people remain important points of difference for Bene.

Throughout the year, our Quality and Clinical Governance Unit supported Home Care to respond to the new Aged Care Act 2024 and strengthened Aged Care Quality Standards. Policies, procedures and practices were reviewed and updated to ensure that Bene remained responsive to the changing regulatory environment.

This year also marked an important leadership transition for Home Care. We extend our sincere thanks to Anne Higginson for her stewardship, dedication and significant contribution to Bene. Anne guided Home Care through many years of growth and change and played a central role in preparing the organisation for Support at Home and the broader aged care reforms. Her knowledge of our clients, employees and communities, together with her commitment to culturally appropriate, person-centred care, has left a strong foundation for the future.

We thank the Bene Board, Executive Team, employees, volunteers and service partners for their flexibility, compassion and commitment throughout a demanding and successful year. Their continued dedication ensures that older people and their families remain supported, connected and able to live as independently as possible.

Quality and Clinical Governance

During 2025/26, we continued to strengthen quality, safety and the older person/client experience, recognising that this requires ongoing investment, learning and improvement. We remain focused on delivering better outcomes for older people in line with individual care goals through the evolving implementation of our Home Care software solution, which has enhanced client management and strengthened clinical documentation; our continued participation in research, including the IDC-IMPROVE study; and our commitment towards organisational improvement related to culture and Bene's approach towards quality assurance with Bene values and our steadfast engagement in solidifying our client safety culture. This has supported us to meet policy management, risk and compliance obligations while bringing our staff and older people on this major change journey.

At Bene, our Clinical Governance Framework provides the foundation for our ongoing commitment to safe, effective, high-quality care in line with the Statement of Rights. This framework and focus of our clinical governance systems ensure organisational excellence across the continuum of care for older people receiving our care and services. Bene continued to strengthen its clinical governance systems this year, supporting our commitment to excellence in care.

One of our key organisational structural changes was the establishment of a new Quality and Clinical Governance Unit (QCG Unit) to support clinical safety, governance and quality. New roles within the unit's structure include a new Executive Leadership position, Manager Quality and Clinical Governance, as well as Manager Quality and Compliance, and Quality Business Partner. Bene understands that protecting and improving care quality requires ongoing focus, staff development and a commitment to reinvestment. Our Clinical Governance Committee and subcommittees play an ever-important role in embedding evidence-based clinical practices into our daily operations, directly enhancing the safety, dignity and clinical outcomes of our older people.

Through established systems of oversight, reporting, risk management and continuous improvement, we have monitored our performance, reviewed our risk identification processes, strengthened incident management processes and continued to focus on organisational learning by identifying and responding to risks to help drive improvements in care. By investing in stronger systems and organisational capability, we are giving our teams the tools they need to drive ongoing improvements in the safety, quality and consistency of care for all older people.

Aged care reform

On 1 November 2025, the Aged Care Act 2024 took effect with a rights-based, person-centred system. This landmark reform introduces an enforceable Statement of Rights alongside stricter provider registration, compliance and auditing rules. It also grants the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission (ACQSC) expanded powers, while tightening rules for complaints, whistleblower protections and supported decision-making. The sector is currently transitioning, with older regulatory processes gradually moving to the new framework under the Aged Care Rules 2025. The strengthened Aged Care Quality Standards also became mandatory, with increased emphasis on older person dignity, choice and independence, as well as establishing clear and consistent expectations for aged care providers.

A significant focus during 2025/26 was preparation for and implementation of the new Aged Care Act and strengthened Quality Standards. Bene established an Aged Care Reforms Steering Group, and the QCG Unit undertook extensive work to review and strengthen organisational systems and workforce capability to ensure alignment with the new rights-based, person-centred approach to care. We worked closely with the Manager Home Care to support the integration of the compliance requirements and preparatory work for the new Support at Home Program, ensuring a seamless transition for our clients and staff.

The Quality and Clinical Governance Unit also drove key initiatives to prepare our organisation for the evolving aged care sector. Our workforce was engaged at all levels to successfully integrate these new reform principles into our day-to-day practices. An Aged Care Reforms Project Manager role was created to support the Steering Group's work to embed the Statement of Rights, with Foundation and Application Modules delivered across residential sites and Home Care through face-to-face sessions and a card game designed with role-play scenarios.

Survey results in residential aged care and Home Care moved from awareness of the Statement of Rights to behaviour change and understanding. The training results indicate 75% of staff are aware of the Statement of Rights, with increased confidence building across frontline staff.

This work extended across every level of the organisation and included mandatory education and readiness initiatives for all employees, toolbox education sessions and strengthened oversight mechanisms to support quality, safety and accountability. These reforms represent an important step in our ongoing improvement journey. As expectations across the aged care sector continue to evolve, we remain committed to maturing our systems, governance and capability to ensure every older person and client receives safe, high-quality, person-centred care.

The aged care reforms resulted in a review of our Bene guides to help older people and their supporters have a clearer understanding of care arrangements and service offerings available. Bene has expanded the availability of our translated resources to support accessible communication and informed decision-making across our services. The initiative supports clearer communication, improved accessibility of information and a more inclusive experience for older people and families. This included enhanced information resources and redesigned older person and family new admission guides to help people feel welcomed, informed and supported as they transition into their new home.

Provider registration

Bene was transitioned via the deeming process into registration categories 1-6 as a registered provider by the Department of Health, Disability and Ageing, effective from 1 November 2025. Under the new system, regulatory oversight has shifted toward risk-based audits and rolling registration. There is now heightened scrutiny on effective complaints handling and incident management processes, alongside increased requirements for staff training and competency. In the second half of 2026, we commenced preparing our application for renewal of registration and work for our upcoming renewal audit in the 2026/27.

Quality Care Advisory Body (QCAB)

The Bene Quality Care Advisory Body (QCAB) provides a structured forum through which managers, staff, residents and community representatives can share feedback, contribute ideas and help shape the care and services we deliver. The QCAB ensures the voices of older people are heard directly by the Executive and Board. During 2025/26, eight QCAB meetings were held, generating valuable insights across a broad range of topics, including food and dining experience, lifestyle and engagement, and transitions of care.

We thank all our QCAB representatives who contributed their time, experiences and ideas throughout the year. Feedback received through our QCAB directly informed a range of improvement initiatives, including enhancements to the admission experience, an Italian cultural festival, an enhanced dining experience and a strengthened continuous improvement approach to care. Bene values our QCAB partnership and how it supports continuous improvement in the care and services we provide.

My team remain committed to our informed and proactive approach to quality and clinical governance and will continue to closely monitor the activities, outcomes and quality of our services and environments to ensure Bene's clinical governance processes remain robust and well equipped to guide our clinical and strategic direction.

I genuinely feel privileged to be part of an organisation where staff and volunteers commit to Bene's promise of quality care, lifestyle, credibility and strong service philosophy in their unwavering quest to deliver on Bene's vision to enhance the wellbeing and quality of life for older people from Italian and other communities.
